Synopsis :

Review 'The Handbook of Sexuality Related Measures is a 'must have' for anybody who conducts research related to sexuality. It is a comprehensive compendium of all the important measures in the area. The Handbook provides not only the questionnaire items but also full information about each scale's psychometric properties in a format that is accessible and easy to use.' —E. Sandra Byers, Psychology, University of New Brunswick 'Having a new edition of this handbook is like having a new infusion of energy and resources for sex researchers and students. It is so valuable to have so many well validated measures in one collection. It serves an important educational purpose in terms of operationalizing the concepts studied in our field, and it is very practical as well.' —Betsy Crane, Sociology, Widener University 'The new updated, revised, and expanded third edition provides the reader with an even more valuable resource, and the related companion website moves the project into the twenty-first century. This is an invaluable research tool for anyone interested in the scholarly and scientific study of human sexuality, and it represents an awesome undertaking on the part of the editors.' —Howard J. Ruppel, Institute for Advanced Study of Human Sexuality Read more About the Author Terri D. Fisher has been on the psychology faculty of The Ohio State University since 1982. She has conducted research on various aspects of sexual behavior and is Past-President of the Midcontinent Region of the Society for the Scientific Study of Sexuality, and Consulting Editor for The Journal of Sex Research. Clive M. Davis taught at Syracuse University. Davis' research was focused on sexuality and communications. He was Editor of The Journal of Sex Research and President of the Society for the Scientific Study of Sexuality. He was the founding president of the Foundation for the Scientific Study of Sexuality. William L. Yarber is professor of applied health science and professor of gender studies at Indiana University, Bloomington. He is also a senior research fellow at The Kinsey Institute for Research in Sex, Gender, and Reproduction and the senior director of the Rural Center for AIDS/STD Prevention at Indiana University. Sandra Davis was an Executive Assistant in the New York State Assembly for 15 years. From 1983-1988, she was Managing Editor of The Journal of Sex Research and then served as Assistant Editor for the Annual Review of Sex Research for 10 years.
